« Pam, Colin, Jack, Barbara, George, you and me — that's the seven — the Secret Seven. It sounds nice, doesn't it? » The Secret Seven Society was one that Peter and Janet had invented. They thought it was great fun to have a little band of boys and girls who knew the password, and who wore the badge — a button with S.S. on.

The Secret Seven or Secret Seven Society is a fictional group of child detectives created by Enid Blyton. They appear in one of several adolescent detective series Blyton wrote. The Secret Seven consists of Peter, Janet, Pam, Barbara, Jack, Colin and Gsorge. Jack's sister Susie and her best friend Binkie make occasional appearances in the books; they hate the Secret Seven and delight in playing tricks designed to humiliate them, although this is partly fuelled by their almost obsessive desire to

The Secret Seven—Wikipedia

The Seven have a secret password, a badge, and a secret headquarters in a garden shed. The Seven are led by Peter and include Peter's sister Janet, and their friends Jack, Colin, George, Pam and Barbara. They are joined by their golden spaniel, Scamper. The society was actually formed in a short story prior to the first book in this series.

The Secret Seven Series by Enid Blyton—Goodreads

The Secret Seven series was the first "series" of Enid Blyton I came across, thanks to a book being passed on to me by my cousin. For a child, I think the series was fun. It made me want to explore the idea of forming secret clubs with badges and passwords and such. It is a box set I've acquired since then, and hope to reread soon.
